HAMPTON ROADS BODY REVEALS ITS PURPOSES

Port Commission Gathers in Roanoke to Meet Business Men of Section.

ROANOKE, VA., May 17.—The purposes of the Hampton Roads port commission are better known to the people of Southwest Virginia tonight, due to the visit of the Hampton Roads port commission to this city today. Two gatherings were held, the first in the assembly-room of the Association of Commerce, at 11:30 o'clock this morning, when Chairman N. D. Maher outlined the work of the commission when Homer L. Ferguson, told of the vast number of horses and men and material which passed through the port of Newport News during the world war, and Representative James P. Woods, of the Sixth District, argued the business men of the Tidewater section to operate more fully in developing their natural resources and in other business matters.

During the afternoon the members were taken on a sight-seeing trip through the Roanoke Valley, and tonight at Hotel Roanoke a banquet was served, at which 250 representatives of the Commonwealth were seated.

J. Sinclair Brown, chairman of the appropriations committee of the House of Delegates, acted as toastmaster and introduced N. D. Maher, chairman of the commission, who stated that Hampton Roads has been neglected by the State for many years, and that it was the purpose of the commission to secure a forty-foot channel to the navy-yard, and the fortification of Cape Henry and Cape Charles. He said Hampton Roads was to have the greatest tobacco and cotton warehouses in the country, and spoke of the great possibilities ahead in the vicinity which would be of great value to the State.

Homer L. Ferguson, of the Newport News Dry Dock and Ship Building Company, was the main speaker of the evening. He told of the needs for the development of the road, so that great vessels could be gotten to the docks. He said that in James River at the present time there were seventeen quays of boats anchored; that the York River held the entire fleet during the world war, and that all the ships of all countries of the world could be stored in Hampton Roads, and yet have room for more. Mr. Ferguson told of the many times the Hampton Roads had been discovered. First by John Smith, then by Cornwallis, later during the war of 1812, the war with Spain and by the British during the world war, when it was found to be the cheapest and best place for the shipment of horses, while the United States sent thousands of men to the battle-front through the port of Newport News.

NORFOLK TUGBOAT MEN ARE RETURNING TO WORK

Judge Waddill Hears Argument for Dissolving Injunction Against Engineers.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] NORFOLK, VA., May 17.—Tug-boat engineers and firemen, who went on strike in sympathy with marine engineers about a week ago, gradually are returning to work. Five of the men today went back to their posts with the Lambert's Point Tow Boat Company, and it is believed that others will follow. It is said that there is no condition exacted of the tug-boat men in this attitude of the engineers.

While it is admitted by the Marine Engineers' Beneficial Association that tug-boat engineers and firemen are returning to work, it is claimed that this has no direct bearing on the strike of the marine workers. Since the Virginia Pilots Association is striking and unloading ships entering and leaving Hampton Roads district, nothing is gained, it is pointed out, by having the tugs idle and keeping the engineers and firemen out of working a hardship on the tug owners. It is said, when there is no justification for it.

Motion for dissolving the temporary injunction granted United States Shipping Board last Saturday evening, restraining marine workers from interfering with men signing to ship before Judge Waddill, in the United States District Court today, Oast, Colney and Jett are appearing for the engineers.

The steamship Eliton sailed last night for South-Atlantic ports and others were expected to sail today.

STAND TOGETHER TO SAVE CAMP LEE AS ARMY BASE

Richmond and Petersburg in Shoulder-to-Shoulder Effort to Halt Abandonment.

PETERSBURG, VA., May 17.—When the fate of Camp Lee is decided by congressional committee in Washington tomorrow, Senators Swanson and Glass, Representative P. M. Drewry and a number of prominent men of this city and Richmond will be present. They will outline the advantages of Camp Lee over its rivals in the fight to have it retained as one of the five big permanent camps in the country.

W. M. Martin, secretary, and J. Val Farham, president of the Petersburg Chamber of Commerce; City Manager Louis Brownlow, Mayor Samuel W. Zimmer and E. H. Crutchfield will be the local men to attend the hearing. While invitations have been extended, John K. Branch, William T. Dabney, Colonel Henry W. Anderson, Oliver J. Sands, Andrew J. Montague and John Garland Pollard, of Richmond, are to be present. Most of them are expected to accept the invitation and stand by it in its fight to save Camp Lee.

Congressman Wascott Stump probably will be present when the matter is heard. The local men in the fight give much credit to the Republican Congressman for his efforts in trying to have the site of the big camp. He was instrumental in having the subcommittee in having the local delegation in bringing the advantages of the local cantonment to the attention of both President Harding and Secretary of War Weeks.

Colonel Jennings O. Wise, counsel for the business men of Richmond and Petersburg in the matter, will lay Camp Lee's advantages before the committee. Since having been engaged as counsel several weeks ago, Colonel Wise has been active in Washington in the matter and the local men are hopeful of winning out in their fight.

ROCKINGHAM COUNTY PLANS TO POOL ITS WOOL

HARRISONBURG, VA., May 17.—Decision to pool all the wool grown in Rockingham County this year was reached at a meeting of the wool growers of the county held here yesterday. K. A. Kaffley, of the Bureau of Markets, at Richmond, was present and delivered an address on marketing wool.

He said the wool grown in Rockingham County has the reputation of being the best in the United States, due to the fact that it shows less shrinkage. Three thousand pounds were raised in the county last year, it was stated, and it seemed to be the general belief that this year's production will exceed that of last. Staunton is the point chosen by the State Wool Growers' Association for the State pool.

GROWING DEAF WITH HEAD NOISES? TRY THIS

If you are growing hard of hearing and fear Catarrhal Deafness, or if you have roaring, rumbling, hissing noises in your ears, go to your druggist and get 1 ounce of Parmit (double strength), and add to it 1/4 pint of hot water and a little granulated sugar. Take one tablespoonful four times a day.

This will often bring quick relief from the distressing head noises. Closed nostrils should open, breathing become easy, and the mucus stopping into the throat. It is easy to prepare, costs little and is pleasant to take. Any one who is threatened with Catarrhal Deafness or who has head noises should give this prescription a trial.—Adv.

On the Same Job 30 Years

Over thirty years ago a mere handful of men in a little red frame building in a Wisconsin village started tanning and making Allen's Sole Strips. Some of those men are still "on the job." What they started we have continued, but the little red building has grown to the world's largest leather manufacturing plant, covering thirty acres.

For over three decades we have had but one job—making Allen's Sole Strips, the leather recognized as "The Standard of Comparison" for repairing shoes.

"John Wanamaker Sees It Coming"

In the New York Times of recent date Wanamaker makes the following statement:

"In some lines prices are stiffening and advances are being made because of scarcity."

Particularly is this true of Wilton Rugs, as all the Wilton Mills have been closed since January 17th, due to a strike of the weavers.
